Special Guest– She will be the President of the AAFP Board of Directors in February 2026

Sarah C. Nosal, MD, FAAFP, is Vice President for Innovation & Optimization and Chief Medical Information Officer at The Institute for Family Health, an FQHC network with 27-plus Mid-Hudson, Bronx, Manhattan, and Brooklyn locations. Nosal's focus is on the care of marginalized communities with two decades of practice in the South Bronx. She has served as medical director for NYU and Einstein student-run free clinics. As CMIO she secured financial support for IT infrastructure and helped her institution become a regional leader in data sharing and ensuring equitable information access.

We have a great conference schedule that is packed with great CME, mostly local speakers, and family fun!

We will again host a one-day hands-on Advanced Life Support in Obstetrics (ALSO) Course. The cost is $400; however, you can get a $100 discount by attending both the SDAFP Winter Seminar and the ALSO course! There will be pre-work required to attend the course and you do earn CME for that. Class size is limited to 24 so register early!

Come Home to the 2026 SDAFP Winter Seminar–Renew, Reconnect, Reimagine! Join us January 29-31, 2026 in historic Deadwood for a weekend of exceptional CME and warm camaraderie. This year's program features a variety of timely topics, two engaging Group KSA's, a hands-on ACLS scenario workshop, and special visits from the AAFP President and the AAFP Insurance Services. Our large, interactive exhibit hall will connect you with resources and innovations to support your practice, while our family-friendly atmosphere makes it easy to bring loved ones along for fun. Don't miss this opportunity to refresh your skills, reconnect with colleagues, and reimagine the future of family medicine—right here at home.

We will be featuring mostly local speakers! Find an online version of the 2026 SDAFP Conference Brochure at <http://sdafp.org/winter-seminar>. The online version will include links with more information on the speakers and the objectives for their sessions.

Double Your CME for One Registration! When you register for the 2026 SDAFP Winter Seminar by December 15, 2025, you'll also receive complimentary ZOOM access to the 2026 Alaska Academy of Family Physicians Winter Update. Most sessions are completely different, giving you fresh learning opportunities and more CME credit for the same investment. Please note: Group KSA sessions will be the same at both events so if you want to ski in the afternoon you can catch the KSA via Zoom the next weekend! Workshops are not included with virtual options.

The AKAFP Winter Update is February 6-8, 2026. Find the schedule at <http://alaskaafp.org/cme>

With FMX in Anaheim we will be bringing Disney Home!

So Bring your Prince and Princesses and all your Goofy characters!

Tentative 2026 SDAFP Winter Seminar lectures/speakers are subject to change.
